Comments. I computed final grades by adding up your best final (out of 140), you homework (out of 25) and your final (out of 175). The score on your final was the sum of what you received on the last five questions. I added 27 to everyone’s score. The median score on the final was 140. The median score on the course (out of 350) was 270. The cutoffs for letter grades were: above 290 (A); above 265 (B); above 230 (C); above 200 (D).

You can pick up your final in Sequoia 245 in the second week of classes. You are welcome to talk to me about your examination or your final grade (send me an email to arrange an appointment). I have one condition: I will not consider a request to change your grade if you remove the exam from 245. If you think that your exam has been misgraded, please compare the posted answers to the final to your paper, leave your exam in 245, and write me a note indicating where you think that you have lost points. I’ll look at your exam and talk to you about it.

Good luck in the rest of Econ 172 and in life.
